THE FARMERS

To those whom we have sold seed wheat—Call at the home house and get same between now and the 15th. We have a little more for sale, extra quality, Harvest King. J. D. Pads & Sons.

For Sale—One hundred and fifty good ewes, two three year old ewes, three yearlings, three mule colts. R. H. Crow, R. F. D. No. 2 Box 28, two rings Junction City exchange 55-2.

The Lexington Herald says: "Central Kentucky cattle feeders as there are yet a large number of exporters in the hands of producers. Hogs are going up and the lamb market has recovered from the loss of one and two weeks ago."

Emmett Hayes, a farmer of Daviess county who raised something like 4,000 bushels of wheat this year, has made a record that will no doubt stand for many years. He cut his wheat at 3 a. m., threshed it all at 11 a. m., delivered it to the mill at 3 p. m., it was ground to flour at 5 p. m., and Hayes ate breakfast at 8 p. m. made of the wheat cut at 3 a. m. This was the first delivery of the year and was said to have been the earliest ever made in that section for years.

Keep some kind of a crop growing in the garden all the season. If nothing else is done sow wheat or rye on the vacant places to keep weeds from springing up and rotting seed. Weeds ripen in a very short time, if they are allowed to grow.

The Lexington Herald says: The well known horse in which Senator R. L. Hubble of Lincoln county has a part ownership, the premium equine known as "Black Elk," put down first money at the Latona race course. The event was the first race known as the Cynosure and Robert time 24:2-5. The horse is the joint property of Colonel D. N. Pruitt, Mr. Eulanks and Senator Hubble all of this section, and is a two-year-old of which its owners expect a great record in the racing world.

James B. Hagin owner of the famous Elmendorf estate, at Lexington, Ky., has recently purchased through his agent, Mr. Charles Berryman, 95 acres more to the 10,000 acres he now owns in one body. This is more blue grass land than is owned by any other one individual. Until recently this farm has been the largest thoroughbred nursery in the world and still retains a few great sires and brood mares. They have a herd of short horns that number over 200 that is second to none. Their dairy establishment and herd of Jerseys, both in quality and numbers is first in the land.

A press report from Frankfort says: "So serious was the recent drought in Central Kentucky that reports received by Commissioner of Agriculture Franklin are that the White Burley tobacco crop of 1911 will be cut to less than 7 per cent of the crop of 1910. From a member of the Board of Control of the Franklin county branch of the Burley Tobacco Society, it was learned that growers, encouraged by the short crop, will try to pool the crop of 1911. So serious was the drought the tobacco crops in former years are being paid at the rate of $1 per acre pooled."

Mother Of Lud Evans

PASSES AWAY IN DANVILLE AT RIPE OLD AGE.

Mrs. Mary McEne Evans died at her home on Maple Avenue yesterday morning and the passing of this good and noble woman caused deep grief in many Danville homes. She was in her 74th year and since her early girlhood had been a conscientious member of the church. Her funeral services will be held tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home on Maple Ave. and will be conducted by Rev. pastor the Rev. Mr. Garrison assisted by Dr. Green. Mrs. Evans was the widow of Mr. William Evans, beloved of Danville people but who long since passed to his reward. Before she married she was Mary McEne, of Mercer county. Her children were two daughters, both dead, and two sons, both living. The daughters were Mrs. Charles Worthington two of whose charming daughters lived with their grandmother and Mrs. John Robinson, of Harrodsburg whose daughter, Mrs. Robert C. Saylor, of Parker, Arizona, was with her grandmother at the time of her death.

Her sons are Lud Evans, of Russellville and Andrew Evans, a judge in Kansas City. Judge Evans will arrive in Danville to-night—Danville Messenger.

To Dam Dix River

IS PLAN PROPOSED BY BOSTON CAPITALISTS.

A dispatch from Danville says: The syndicate of Boston capitalists who have been making a daily gauging of Dix river at Kennedy's mill for the past two years has just made public the result of its investigations. The constant power of the stream is 6,000 horsepower often the power is very much greater, but the figures above show the dry weather extremely favorable.

Plans have been drawn for a dam to be erected of steel and concrete a mile above the mill. It is to be 110 feet high and will therefore create a reservoir extending miles up stream and embodying billions of gallons of water. Beneath the dam will be located the monster power plant, which will operate electric lights and other plants in Richmond, Harrodsburg, Stanford, Lancaster, Danville and Nicholasville, provided the plans on foot are fully consummated.

The estimated cost of the plant is $1,250,000. In the event the power dam is erected water held by it would doubtless submerge both of the huge dams owned by the Danville Waterworks System. Charles Kennedy is in charge of the gauging.
